Mr K and test ban talks

RUSSIA has agreed to sit down with Britain and the United States to resume discussion on banning nuclear tests. Obviously, the general reaction to this is a huge sigh of relief, but the particular reaction of informed opinion in Britain and the United States is one of caution. If it is asked why the Western nations are reacting in such a manner, it might be worth while looking back only as far as last September when the test ban talks were in progress. They were suspended after Russia cynically detonated a bomb while her delegates were seated at a table in Geneva discussing an end to nuclear tests.

It follows then that such insincerity of purpose is bound to arouse suspicion in the minds of statesmen of both Britain and America. For while the very principles of the West oblige her statesmen to call for a conference with the object of banning tests, they cannot but be aware that even though Russia agrees to attend and discuss the problem, she can walk out at any time it suits her.

FURTHERMORE, Russia is agreeing to resume talks only after she has completed a series of tests which included a 60-megaton blast. Thinking people are bound to ask if Russia will use the interval occupied by the proposed talks to prepare for another series of greater and more deadly releases of nuclear radiation. The fact of the matter is, the West has walked into a trap they have set for themselves. Obligated on moral grounds to urge a series of discussions with the object of reaching agreement on the banning of nuclear tests, they are also obliged to refrain from the preparation of any such tests while discussions are taking place.

But what is to happen when they sit down at the table with a power that recognises no moral law? What steps should be taken in dealing with a power that cynically sets aside any consideration but the advancement of its own ideology backed by terror tactics? Past experience should be the guide here. Before accepting any conditions that Russia will attempt to force upon the West, cynicism should be met with caution.

SOMETHING like that seems to be about, for a British Foreign Office spokesman has said that if the new Soviet agreement implied that a new moratorium was a condition for negotiations, Britain could not accept. Of course not. Not after Russia exploded deadly new nuclear weapons she had prepared under cover of the last moratorium.

For this is obviously the fear at the back of the minds of Western statesmen. Will Russia use this negotiating period as a breathing space during which she prepares for a new series of tests. And the regrettable but obvious answer based upon past experience is—yes, the Soviet Union will do just that.

Rockefeller scours area in plane A FATHER'S SEARCH FAILS

Hopes wane for life of explorer son

Merauke, New Guinea, Nov. 22. New York's Governor, Mr Nelson Rockefeller personally joined in the air search for his missing 23-year-old son this afternoon until darkness forced him to return here.

NELSON ROCKEFELLER
A father in torment

He failed to find any trace of Michael. Mr Rockefeller, his daughter Mary, and others in his party arrived in this tiny coastal settlement early this afternoon. They were taken to the District Commissioner's house for a brief rest and a briefing on the status of the air and land search. Then they returned to the airport here where the DC-3, in which they flew in from Hong Kong, was being refueled. Mr Rockefeller, haggard, boarded the plane as the refueling was completed and joined in the air search.

Called off

The Governor's plane returned to Merauke just before darkness closed in on the airport. It had scoured the area where Michael was last reported to have been swimming toward shore.

But the search again failed to turn up any sign of his son, missing since Sunday.

Earlier today the Dutch Navy called off its search of the sea for Michael. A Defence Ministry spokesman, announcing this at the Hague, said the search was being continued in the swamps along the southwest coast for the son of the millionaire.

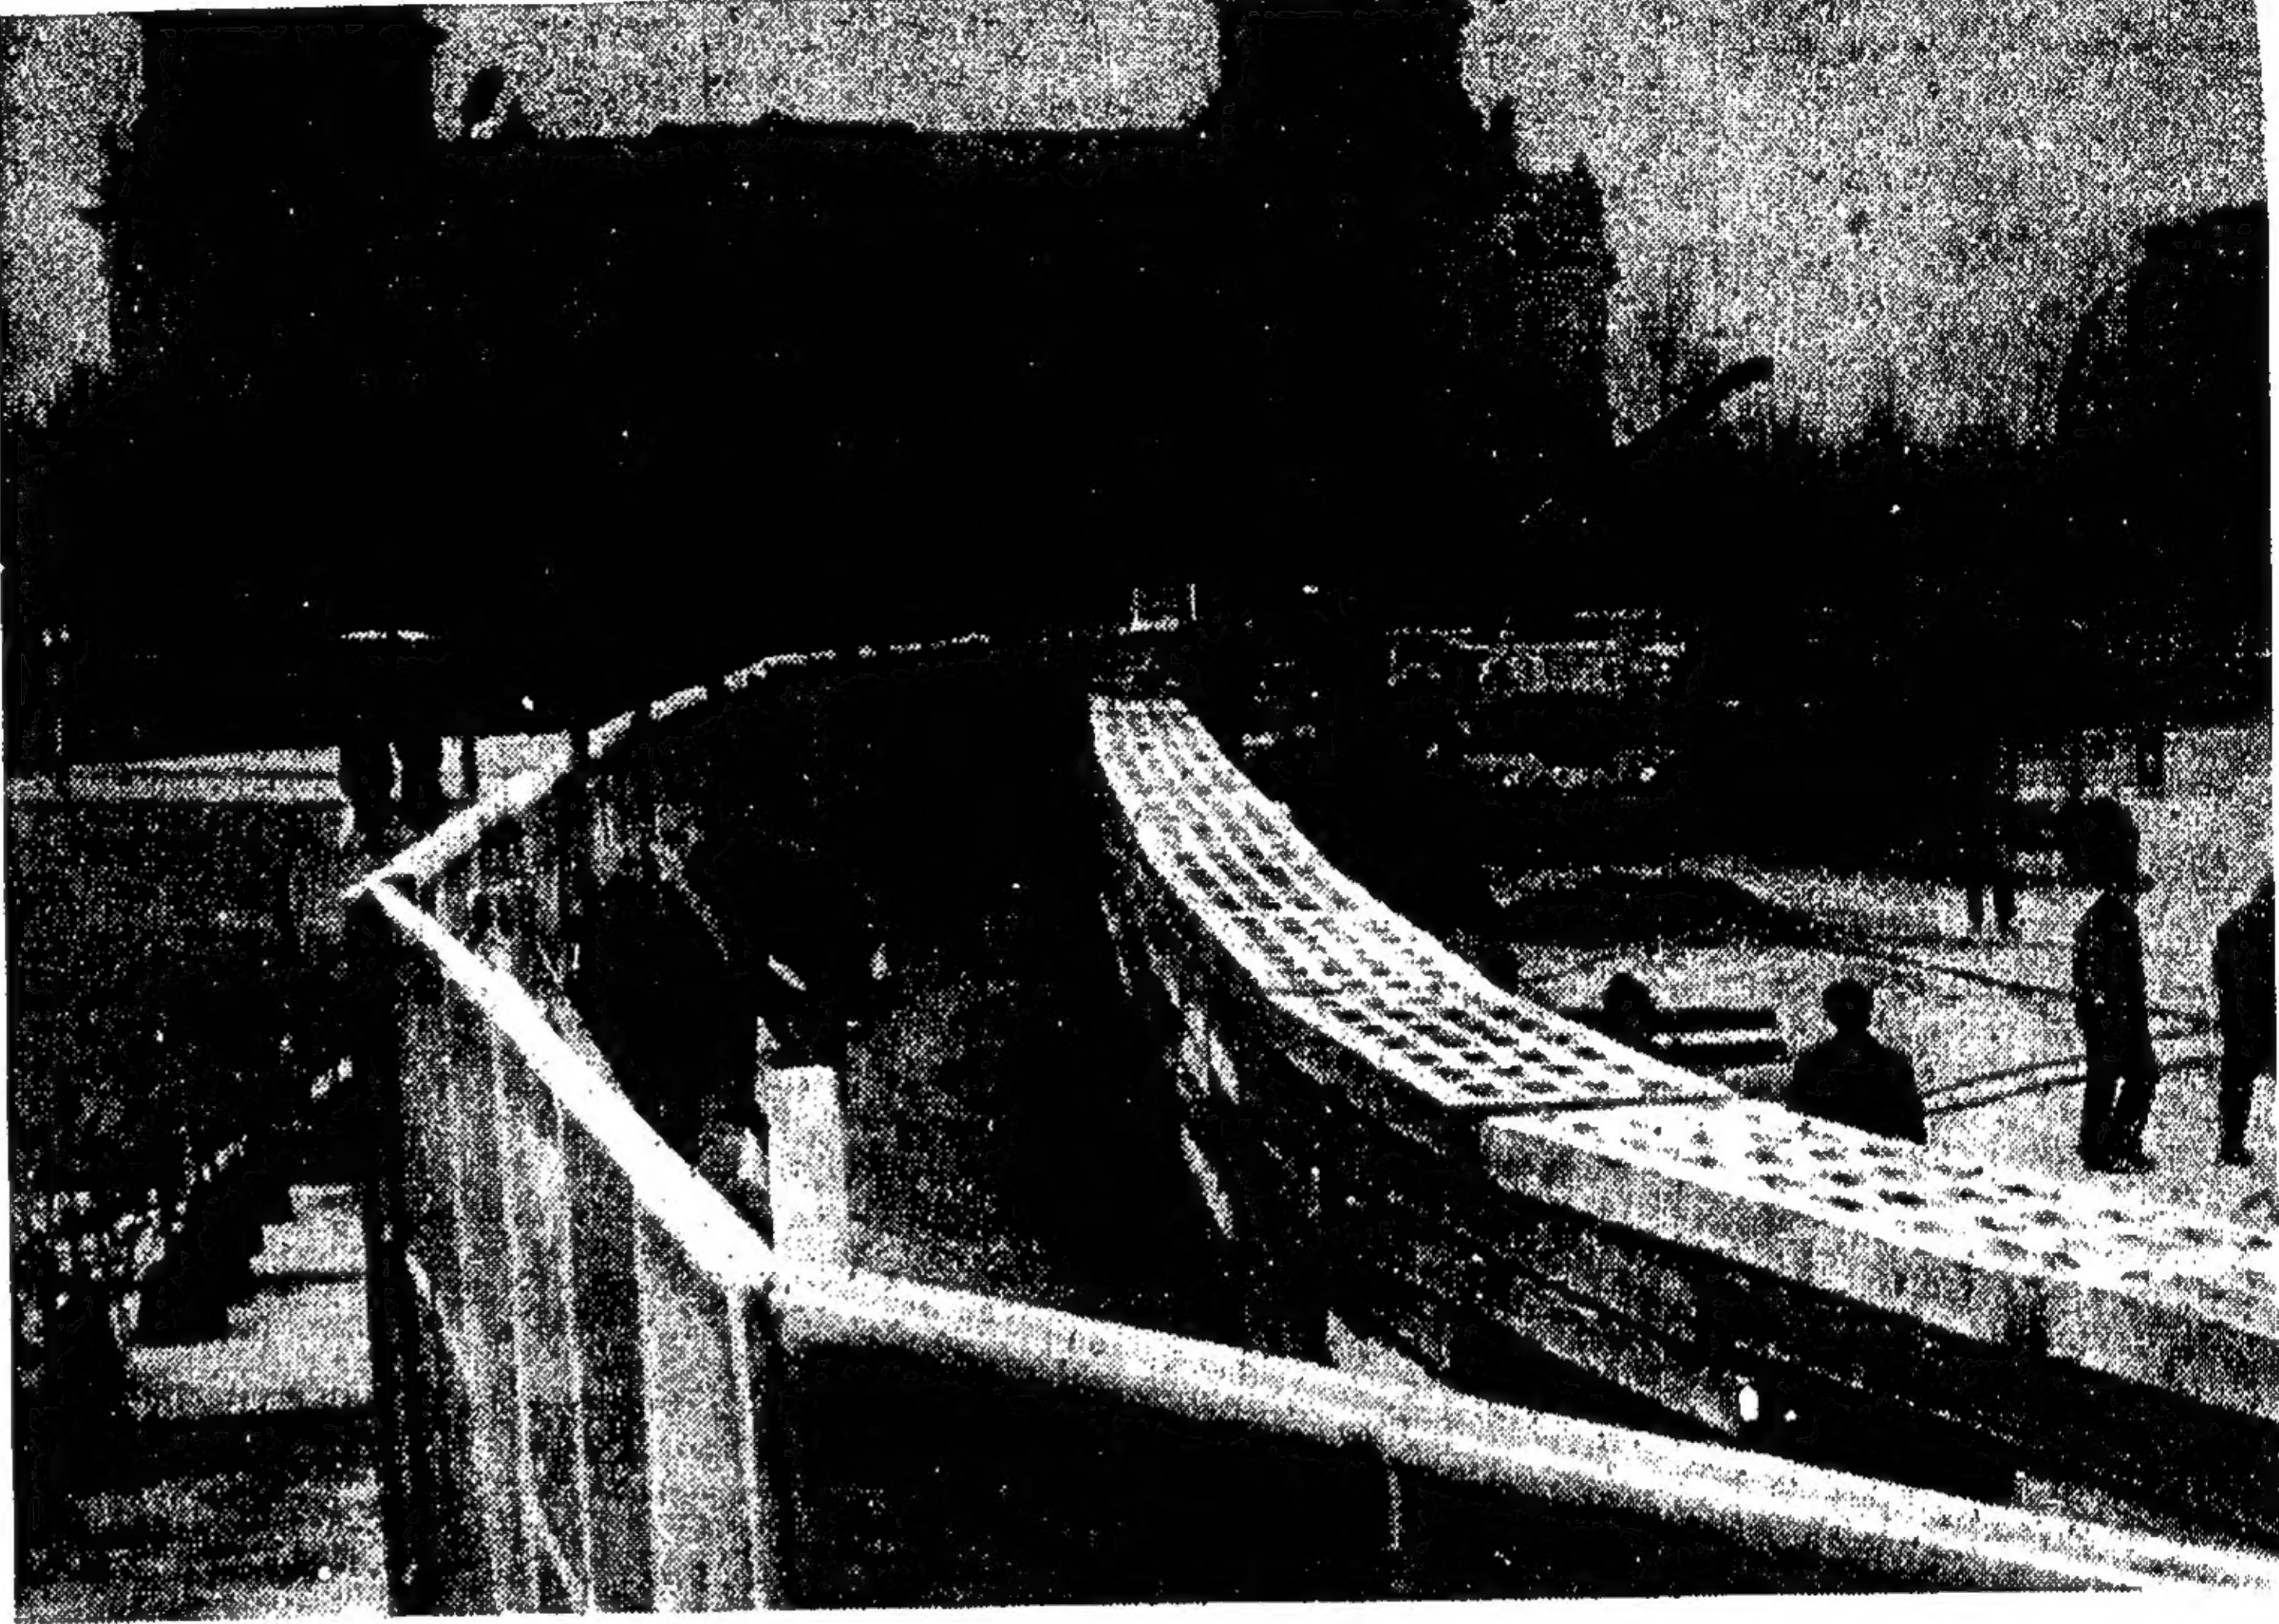

It was "extremely unlikely" that someone who was in the water on Sunday morning could still be found in the sea, he added.

He added that the Neptune planes which the Dutch Navy was using in the search were too fast to spot someone in coastal swamps.—AP & Reuter.

First picture of the new wall in Berlin

U.S. will insist on rights in Berlin

Washington, Nov. 22. West German Foreign Minister Herr Gerhard Schroeder said today that the United States has agreed to insist on the occupation rights of Western Allies in Berlin, instead of replacing these rights with some kind of an agreement with the Soviets.

"It would be dangerous to renounce the rights vested in the Allies as a result of the military occupation of Germany and to replace them by an arrangement with the Soviet Union," Herr Schroeder said in a speech prepared for a National Press Club luncheon.

SHARED

The Minister said: "Such substitution of ordinary rights by negotiated rights would turn out to be a deterioration in the Western position."

"After our discussions here in Washington, I think I can say that the U.S. government shares this view."

Herr Schroeder's speech was the first public summing up of three days of talks between President Kennedy and Chancellor Adenauer.

The Foreign Minister met Washington reporters replacing the Chancellor, who cancelled his appearance because of what aides described as a slight cold.

This insistence of the occupation rights, Herr Schroeder continued, does not mean that the West "should not negotiate with the Soviets on the Berlin question."

Reporting on the conferences between the two leaders, Herr Schroeder said he was "greatly impressed" by Mr Kennedy's "clear and sober assessment" of the situation. (See P3).—AP.

HK shivers:

TEMPERATURE DROPS TO 59.9° F

Hongkong shivered early this morning when thermometers dropped to 59.9 degrees Fahrenheit, making it the coldest night experienced this winter.

This is almost six degrees lower than Tuesday's minimum temperature of 64 F.

This chilly weather caused by a mass of cold air sweeping down from the China mainland, will last for another few days.

Grounded freighter may be refloated

Hopes rose this morning that the Panamanian freighter, the Dennis I, which went aground on rocks in the Tathong Channel last week, would be refloated by the next high tide in one or two days.

Mr James Lee, Managing Director of the Australia Pacific Shipping Co (HK) Ltd, local agents for the ship, went on board today and later told the China Mail that salvage workers had done "a good job."

Friday, and the seven feet of water in the freighter is being pumped out at such a rate that the ship has floated itself up by two feet.

Hopes

"We have good hopes that the Dennis I will be refloated at the next high tide, in another 24 or 48 hours," Mr Lee told the China Mail.

The ship will then be towed to drydock for an inspection of the damage.

Mr Lee disclosed that if the cost of repairs exceeded the value of the ship's insurance, his company would put in a claim for "constructive total loss"—the entire amount for which the Dennis I was insured.

"Should, however, the costs of repair be less than the insurance value, we will then have to decide whether to pay for the work ourselves or to sell the ship for scrap," he said.

DRESSED FOR THE OCCASION

Hudson, NH, Nov. 22. John Gurley hoisted shovel to shoulder and went seeking snow removal work.

Two passing motorists, who apparently thought his dress improper for the job, returned the three-year-old boy to his home early yesterday still wearing his underpants, hat and slippers.—UPI.

INDONESIA WARNS HER WORKERS

Djakarta, Nov. 22. Military authorities have warned people engaged in major prestige construction projects around Djakarta that they should give of their best.

The Djakarta War Administrator, Colonel Umar Wirahadikusumah said in a statement that "obstruction" was being caused by "indifference, lack of initiative, and lack of vigilance."

President Sukarno has already ordered the detention of an untold number of people accused of holding up the work on the luxury Hotel Indonesia for foreigners attending the Asian Games next August.

Colonel Umar said the hotel, the Asian Games project itself, the giant national memorial and national mosque and the Djakarta bypass, (a highway designed to carry the produce of West Java around the capital, and on to the port of Djakarta) were all receiving the attention of the government.—Reuter.

11 DIE IN PI STORM

Manila, Nov. 23. Eleven persons were reported to have perished in a storm which swept through the central Philippines and Luzon last night.

Five other persons were listed as missing. Six of the dead were passengers of the inter-island motor launch, Vivenci, which sank between Huamar and Leyte.

The five missing were on the launch while 17 were rescued, police constabulary reported. The other five victims drowned on Leyte island.

The storm which packed 55 mile-an-hour winds weakened into a depression as it bypassed Manila in its move northward.—AP.

NOTICE TO SHAREHOLDERS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that an Extraordinary General Meeting of the shareholders of the China Light & Power Co., Ltd. will be held in the Company's Hong Kong Office, St. George's Building, second floor, Chater Road, Hong Kong, on Saturday, 16th December, 1961 at 12.10 o'clock in the afternoon (or as soon thereafter as the Annual General Meeting due to be held at 12.00 o'clock noon on that date shall have been concluded) for the purpose of proposing, and, if thought fit, passing the following Resolution as a Special Resolution:

"That the Articles of Association of the Company as amended to 25th November, 1948 and as subsequently amended on 3rd December, 1949 and on 16th December, 1950, shall no longer apply to this Company, and that in lieu thereof the New Articles of Association dated 16th December, 1961, a copy of which New Articles has, for the purpose of identification, been signed by Mr. Lawrence Kadoorie, LL.D., Chev. Leg. Hon., Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Company, be approved and adopted as the Articles of Association of the Company."

Copies of the proposed New Articles of Association are available to shareholders for inspection during office hours at the Head Office of the Company, 147, Argyle Street, Kowloon, and also at the Company's Hong Kong Office, St. George's Building, 2nd floor, Chater Road, Hong Kong.

Dated at Hong Kong this 23rd day of November, 1961.

By Order of the Board of Directors,

A. A. M. ONSLOW,

Secretary & Chief Accountant.

Explanatory Note to Shareholders in connexion with the Extraordinary General Meeting to be held on Saturday, 16th December, 1961, following the Annual General Meeting.

The stock of copies of the Memorandum and Articles of Association of the Company being low, it is necessary to make a further reprint. At the same time your Board is of the opinion that it is desirable to bring the Articles in line with Table A of the United Kingdom Companies Act of 1948, having regard to the special conditions of the Company and the Colony.

While the changes in the proposed Articles may appear to be many, basically there are very few. The main alterations in the proposed new Articles are:

1. Increased fee for new share certificates issued, from $1.00 to $2.00.
2. Share certificates and cheques will require the signature of one Director instead of two Directors, and they will be countersigned by the Secretary or by some other person appointed by the Directors in his stead.
3. Directors' fees will be increased so that each Director will receive $9,000 per annum and the Chairman an additional $3,000 per annum over and above that for each Director, in place of the lumpsum of $38,000 allowed under the present Articles.
4. Provision for appointment of alternate Directors.
5. Right to charge $2.00 for registration of certain documents relating to the Company's shares, such as Grants of Probate, Letters of Administration, Powers of Attorney, etc.
6. Provision permitting a shareholder's proxy, though not a member, to vote at meetings and for a proxy to demand or join in demanding a poll.

Dated at Hong Kong this 23rd day of November, 1961.

By Order of the Board of Directors,

A. A. M. ONSLOW,

Secretary & Chief Accountant.

A TERRIBLE RUMOUR HAUNTS THE CITY

DULL TONE PERSISTS

Stock markets in London yesterday were generally dull. This reflected a number of adverse factors which included the Government's warning that the economic situation remains serious, the fall in industrial production and unfavourable company news.

LONDON

Actual selling was light but with buying interest on a very restricted scale, the smallest amount of selling was sufficient for jobbers to lower their prices.

A feature was the fall of 4/9 to 26 3/4 in the share of English Electric on the warning of lower dividend and profits.

Other electrical equipment shares were sympathetically lower. Engineering issues caused active dealings today when traders anticipated the Thanksgiving holiday tomorrow and first of December notice day on Friday.

The July contracts swayed over a range of more than $1 a bale, with the last closing net 15 higher to 14 points lower. Opening prices were unchanged to up 6 points. New Orleans closed up 15 to off 15 points.

Estimates on the possible amount of December tenders varied widely, running between 1400 and 2000 contracts. The stock certificate cotton, available for contract delivery today totalled 30,168 bales.

However, of this amount some 8,100 bales have been set aside for inspection as to water damage. Reports indicated that around 1,400 bales of the set-aside cotton may be rejected as not deliverable on contract.

Raw cotton exports to Nov. 18 totalled 1,538,530 bales, versus 1,276,805 bales reported to the same time last season, according to the New York Cotton Exchange (UPI).

World No. 2 sugar closed down to 11 points higher with sales of two contracts.

World No. 3 sugar closed down to 10 points higher with sales of two contracts.

Domestic No. 2 sugar closed down to four points lower with sales of 71 contracts.

Prices in the world contract continued to reflect news of Cuba's withdrawal as a seller in the world market, and firmness in the raw situation.

Evening-up before the holiday tomorrow also provided a trading feature in both the world and domestic contracts.—UPI.

NEW YORK COTTON MARKET

The market opened a little lower, sold off substantially around noon, but recovered most of its losses by the close.

Most losses ranged from a few cents to around one dollar a share, but there were wider moves in both directions.

Standard and Poor's 500 stock index lost a minor eight cents at $71.70. The S&P 425 industrials were down nine cents at $75.40.

The Associated Press 60 stock average fell 60 to 267.20.

The Dow Jones 30 industrial rose 1.10 to 730.42.

Volume totalled 4,500,000 shares compared with 4,890,000 shares traded on Tuesday.

Dow Jones closing stock averages:

30 Index 730.42 up 1.10

20 Index 148.10 off 0.47

15 Index 134.87 off 0.16

10 Index 249.89 up 0.14

—AP & UPI

NEW YORK SUGAR MARKET

The market opened firm, then an easier trend developed after the first sales were posted. Later, shares picked up again, in many cases completely wiping out earlier losses.

At the end of the morning session most were showing small but useful rises over yesterday's closing rates.

For example, Wheelocks were up 20 cents, HK Docks by $2, Calumet up $2, Provident up 50 cents, Land up $1, Teams up a quarter, KM Bus up $1, Light and Electric up a quarter, Gas up 20 cents, Cement up $1, which is a pretty sight after the subdued tone of recent days.

LOSERS TOO

There were some losers too. Hongkong Banks on a few sales slipped down from $552 to $550 following further decline in London. Wharf dropped down $6 during the morning from $354 to $348, and Watson, a recent gainer, slipped during the morning to $56. This last sale was recorded for a

CHILE OFFERS ASYLUM TO GALVAO & CO

Far-reaching effects on SE Asia

GALVAO: A new home

Santiago, Nov. 22. Chile today offered asylum to Henrique Galvao, Portuguese rebel who has seized a plane and a ship in his campaign against his home government.

Galvao was held overnight in a Rio de Janeiro jail after Brazil refused to accept him. He had previously been expelled from Morocco.

REFUSED

The announcement that Galvao and six other Portuguese rebels would be allowed to enter Chile, was made by the Foreign Ministry after inquiries from Air France.

The French airline flew the Portuguese rebels from Dakar to Rio, but Brazil refused to accept them.—AP.

Troop movement

Lisbon, Nov. 22. A contingent of 1,400 troops left Lisbon by sea today for Mozambique, Portuguese East Africa.—Reuters

Reds shoot at teenager

Berlin, Nov. 22. East German border guards shot at a 14-year-old East Berlin boy today when West Berlin relatives threw him a food package across the wall dividing Berlin.

West Berlin police said the boy was not hurt—but he was arrested and taken away. Following the incident East and West police had a brief battle across the wall with tear gas grenades.

The people who threw the parcel were among many who made a pilgrimage to the wall on the annual Lutheran "Day of Prayer and Atonement."

West Berlin police said a group of West Berlin teenagers tore down a chunk of the wall at another spot. Eight or ten youngsters, between 16 and 18, piled several blocks off the top of the wall with iron pipes at a lonely section amid World War II ruins. AP.

JAPANESE ARE WHITE—BUT CHINESE ARE COLOURED, SOUTH AFRICA DECIDES

Johannesburg, Nov. 22. Government officials in Pretoria today decided that Japanese—but not Chinese—will in the future be regarded as white in South Africa.

The officials said Japanese, whether born in the republic or not, would have all the privileges of whites including the right to buy homes in "white" areas, use white public transportation and have access to liquor and other amenities.

INCREASE

The action follows the increase in influx of Japanese businessmen and tourists.

The Chinese born in South Africa now are classed as coloured and are to remain so, the government officials said.

But visiting Chinese, they added, will have all the amenities granted to the whites.

It has not yet been clarified, informed sources said, whether Japanese will be allowed to marry whites in South Africa. —UPI.

NEWS IN BRIEF

U.S. AIR FORCE FIRES 'MYSTERY' SATELLITE

Point Arguello, Nov. 22.

A "mystery" satellite was launched today by the U.S. Air Force here in California.

A brief Air Force announcement said the launching—first from this naval missile facility bordering Vandenberg Air Force base to be closed to the press—was with an Atlas-Agena booster.

This is the combination used in both Midas and Samos. Midas is being developed to detect enemy missiles on launch and Samos is designed to take spy pictures from space.

"The satellite is carrying a number of classified test components," the brief Air Force announcement said.

The two launch pads here have been used solely to date for launches of the Midas or Samos satellites. Other launch pads are under construction to build the same kind of booster. —UPI.

Siberian birds and fallout

Karachi, Nov. 22. Migratory birds from Siberia are attracting attention not only from sportsmen but also from nuclear scientists here this winter.

A spokesman of the Atomic Energy Commission said here that experts were studying whether these birds were affected by fallout from the Russian nuclear tests.

The ducks migrate every winter to the plains of India, Pakistan and other countries where the winter is milder than in Siberia.

Sportsmen this year have to await instructions from the scientists to make sure the birds are safe for eating. A pamphlet on this will be issued soon.—China Mail Special.

Polio outbreak in Santiago

Washington, Nov. 22. The U.S. Public Health Service said today it has been advised of a serious outbreak of infantile paralysis in Santiago, Chile.

At the request of Chilean officials, the Health Service said, special equipment is being sent down by the National Foundation, a private agency, and 100,000 units of oral vaccine from the service's special epidemic reserve.—AP.

Jailed for old murder

Taipei, Nov. 22. Chen Liang-chuan was sentenced to 14 years in jail today for murdering his employer in China 14 years ago.

Chen, a former lieutenant in the Coast Guard in Chekiang Province, disappeared after the murder.

The victim's brother recognized him this year on a street in Formosa.—AP.

Kennedy, Adenauer reach accord on Berlin issue

Washington, Nov. 22.

President Kennedy and Dr Konrad Adenauer announced in a joint communique today that they were in accord on the basic elements which would permit a peaceful solution of the Berlin crisis through negotiation "if there is reasonableness on the part of the Soviet Union".

The communique, issued after three days of intensive talks, added "they agreed on the measures which should be taken in pursuing this objective."

Determination

They also "agreed on the necessity for maintaining and increasing the ability of the NATO alliance to cope with any military developments."

They reaffirmed the ultimate goal of German reunification and stated they were in agreement that this objective could be realized "without prejudice to the legitimate interests of the Soviet Union and Germany's neighbours."

The President and the Chancellor expressed their "clear determination to ensure the continuance of a free and vigorous life for the population of Berlin."

It said the discussions would be continued through the already announced meetings between Dr Adenauer, Mr Harold Macmillan and President de Gaulle and concluded in the Foreign Ministers meeting and the NATO ministerial meeting scheduled for mid-December in Paris.—Reuters.

Nato officer satisfied with talks on defences

Copenhagen Nov. 22.

Nato's Northern Command Chief, General Sir Harold Pyman, declared his "complete satisfaction" with discussions held in Norway on a "command arrangement for Nato defences in Denmark and Schleswig-Holstein" a communique from the Nato office here said today.

He has reported on the discussions to Nato Supreme Commander in Europe, General Norstad, and asked national delegations to present reports to their defence ministers.

RESULTS

The Danish Defence Minister, Mr Poul Hansen said here that he did not at present know any details, and would not learn of these until Friday.

"After that I must consider the results and have discussions with the Government before any further decision is reached on the basis of negotiations," he added.—Reuters.

THE PIECE OF RUBBER DECIDED TO MOVE

London, Nov. 22.

The manager of a shop at Falmouth spotted a brightly-coloured piece of rubber on the ground and decided to play a practical joke on his staff.

"Look, a snake," he said, hoping to shock them.

Then the piece of rubber decided to move.

"The joke was on me," the manager, Mr T.B. Spillman, said. An animal welfare inspector coaxed the 1½ foot long snake into captivity.—China Mail Special.

Biography
on social reformer

London, Nov. 22.
An 80-year-old blind woman has written a new biography of Josephine Butler, British 19th century social reformer, it was reported today.

Miss Enid Moberly Bell, founder of a London school, achieved this gigantic task by moving read to her a vast collection of unpublished papers from all over the world.

She is now looking for a publisher.
Miss Bell said, "Mrs Butler was a great letter writer and most of her correspondence is undated and addressed to a dear friend."

"She was a beautiful, most amusing woman, married to a perfect husband, and in her campaign for the abolition of state regulations denying the constitutional rights to prostitutes, she fought like a tiger."

Mrs Butler's great-great-nephew by marriage is the present Home Secretary, Mr. R. A. Butler, who two years ago brought in tougher new anti-prostitution laws which increased fines and prison sentences which cleared the streets of prostitutes. —China Mail Special.

King Saud
in U.S. for treatment

Boston, Nov. 22.

Wearing brilliant red robes and accompanied by four wives, King Saud of Saudi Arabia, arrived at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital for medical tests and treatment of a possible gastric ulcer.

The oil-rich monarch waved inside a wheel chair as he walked down the ramp of a jet plane that brought him from his kingdom.

Seven shining cars and an ambulance were on hand for his arrival. Two aides assisted the potentate.

The veiled wives will be quartered at the hospital during the King's stay which is expected to last six to eight weeks. Other members of his retinue of 35 will be housed at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel.

Included in the group were 10 bodyguards, members of his medical staff and his personal treasurer. The guards wore pistols.

Although Moslems permit only four wives, the King is estimated to have had 100 wives and concubines who are said to have given him 25 sons. —AP.

Workers
farms

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 22.

A band of 400 farm workers led by a 23-year-old youth was determined today to defend by force 1,300 acres of land they have turned into farms.

A dispute over the land in Cachoeiras de Macacu about 20 miles from here arose when five men claimed they owned the acreage and ordered the workers off. The workers seized the five, but one escaped and got police help to release the others.

Since then a court has ordered the workers to vacate the land on grounds that it although they have been working it for six years.

Anticipating a move to eject them by force, the workers have closed roads leading to the disputed area and have been training with weapons for several days. Their leader, Mariano Besar, President of the Peasants' League of Rio de Janeiro, says he can raise 5,000 men to defend the workers. —AP.

GUNNERY
RANGE
STOPPED

Tokyo, Nov. 22.

The accidental firing of 16 practice cannon shells into a village 60 miles north of Tokyo resulted today in the temporary suspension of operations at a nearby U.S. Air Force gunnery range.

Lieut-General Jacob Smart, commander of U.S. forces in Japan, closed the Mito range pending an investigation into the firing mishap after Governor Jiro Iwakami of Ibaraki prefecture asked that the range be relocated.

The range has been a sore point with local officials for years. Tokyo newspapers have reported that practice bullets or bombs fell in the countryside outside the range as much as 300 times since it was opened in 1946.

REGRETS

Gen. Smart pointed out that the Japanese Government had provided the range for U.S. use and indicated Iwakami should take up the matter of relocating it with his Government. The General expressed "deep regrets over this most unfortunate incident" and said any relocation proposal from the Japanese Government would get "prompt and careful consideration."

The U.S. Air Force announced earlier that a "one-in-a-million" failure of electrical safety equipment caused the firing of the 16 non-explosive shells on Monday as a B57 bomber was approaching Mito for a mock bomb attack. The shells hit four buildings in Nakaminato village but no one was hurt. —AP.

Supersonic
airliner

Paris, Nov. 22.

Construction of a supersonic airliner in the 2,000 to 3,500 mph class was approved today by the French Government.

The decision was made to give France an early start in the field of medium-range supersonic planes. Some American firms already have long-range supersonic planes in their future plans.

The new plane would be expected to replace the twin-jet Caravelle, made by the nationalised Sud Aviation Company. Aircraft are now one of France's leading exports. —AP.

Stole yacht

Kingston, Nov. 22.

Two refugees from Cuba, one a Greek, were sentenced to eight months in prison today for theft of a yacht from a Kingston doctor.

The court was told the two, Greek-born Stylios Beilis and Mario Curbello, had planned to go to the United States but had been refused American visas. Police believed they planned to head to Miami.

Beilis, 44, was reported to have been Fidel Castro's one-time naval commander at Santiago. The two had been in asylum here since last March. —AP.

PRINCE ANDREW WILL HAVE TO WAIT

London, Nov. 22.

Prince Andrew, not yet two years old, already has a collection of precious and unusual gifts waiting until he is old enough to appreciate them, it was learned today.

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh have brought back many precious and unusual presents received for him on Royal tours — many more than an ordinary child would ever dream of receiving.

Among those from the current West African tour is a gold fountain pen waiting until he can write.

Another treat in store is a set of solid silver animal figures given to his parents on the India and Pakistan tour in the spring.

The animals, ranging in size from two to four inches, include a baby deer, an elephant and a peacock and several other birds. He will be allowed to play with them as soon as he is old enough. —China Mail Special.

Washington, Nov. 22.

The final question asked of Germany's new Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder at the National Press Club today was, "If you were in Berlin and 20 years younger, would you stay there?"

But Club President John Cosgrove mis-read the written question, substituting "London" for Berlin.

As the audience laughed, Herr Schroeder replied:

"I also read the word as London and if it had been so my answer would have been a declaration of my love for London."

"The answer as regards Berlin is emphatically, yes." —AP.

That silly fall-out scare... by Chapman Pincher

THE great milk scare is over. The "cloud" of debris from Mr. Krushchev's super-bombs has passed over Britain.

And as figures to be issued by the Agricultural Research Council recently will show, milk has not become dangerously radioactive.

Indeed, measurements in Ireland the other day were so low that the dust from the dreaded 50-megaton bomb had either missed the country completely or was astonishingly deficient in radioactivity.

By the time the bomb is blown round the world again the iodine in it—which scientists rated as the hazardous component—will have lost most of its radioactivity.

Strontium 90—the other potentially dangerous ingredient in the atmosphere, which stays up longer—may be falling out in greater quantities next spring.

But Mr. Aul Research Council scientists agree that even then the danger posed by Strontium 90 should be negligible. Millions of parents will be relieved that the danger of milk becoming radioactive, which has been given such prominence by Government spokesmen and on TV, has not materialised.

They should also be extremely angry because in fact it has never really existed. The fall-out risk from the Russian tests has been played up for political motives. But all the Government has succeeded in doing is to frighten the British public unnecessarily.

I am not just being wise after the event. From the moment the Government talked about issuing emergency supplies of dried milk for babies I pointed out that the risk was being greatly exaggerated.

I could find nobody who really believed that milk would be seriously contaminated. No scientist doubted that the Russians would take the fullest precautions to ensure that their own population—which would receive more fall-out than any other—would not be injured.

Yet the Government repeatedly cried "Wolf" over the Russian fall-out when there was no hazard. If danger really threatens in the future the public will be less likely to take notice of its warnings.

I hold no brief for Mr. Krushchev or his military advisers. They had been planning their tests for at least 18 months while pretending to negotiate a testban at Geneva. They must have been setting up the testing grounds for a year.

Surely that double-dealing was the issue on which to attack them—not the false fear of fall-out which now rebounds on the Government.

The West—and particularly the U.S.—has also been at fault for insisting that the main purpose of the tests was propaganda—to sow fear and terror over Berlin.

Nobody in the nuclear weapons business I have consulted, either in Britain or the U.S., believe this. It is also denied by the facts now known about the tests.

If Mr. K. simply wanted to terrorise the world by nuclear propaganda all he had to do was to explode one superbomb in a quiet pocket of the Pacific where millions could see it.

ANNE SHARPLEY reports from Ghana

The Queen's visit—expect the Mammies to make the most of it...

POLITICS apart, the men of Ghana are in a fix. The Queen's visit is all that the women of Ghana needed to win a decisive battle in the sex war.

And the Amazons of the sex war in Ghana are the bosomy, ebullient, incorrigible market mammies of Accra.

"Today is the day of women," they are proclaiming to one another in the market rhetoric. "The Queen is a woman. She rules over all men. Now men will know how powerful we women are."

The men of Ghana might well tremble. The women represent not only a political and social force—but when one sees them together in their shining black amplitude they seem to represent a natural force too that could bear away the city of Accra in a thunder roll of feminism.

And when President Nkrumah took Mr. Sandys to the market Mr. Sandys was given ample proof that not only was the President popular again with his market mammies, but he could come in for some of the adoration, too.

It was a wise programme planner then who included a visit by the Queen to the principal market. Makola market is superb evidence that the female norm is not chaos but miscellany.

Now it is bananas that attack every pore until the world seems composed of bananas and only bananas. Next, it is smoked fish that has one reeling.

"So the world be" with "Poor no friend" as runner-up) Mummy then carries her goods from the parking ground (one thousand wagons parked daily in Makola alone) on her splendid unbendable head.

Some mammies come from as far as Nigeria for mammies know no frontiers and don't hold with passports. In the rich heat the foodstuffs soak the senses.

Now it is bananas that attack every pore until the world seems composed of bananas and only bananas. Next, it is smoked fish that has one reeling.

leaves. The soft lead that is ground up to make kohl, the dark silver eye shadow that is believed to keep the flies away, glitters more alluringly than all the imported, brightly packaged cosmetics next to it.

Okule Biney, mother of ten children, for 20 years a market mummy, shows me a kaba shoulder (a corruption of cover shoulder), the cloth into which she winds herself with such careless ease. On it is a picture of the Queen and President Nkrumah together.

feels she may ask how many the Queen has.

"Three," I said.

Aah, it is different for you women. For us three is not enough. But we are strong, we have even 15 or 20 children."

Esther Akole, mother of 12, asks if I have any children.

I say none. "You don't like man, or man don't like you?" she asks with a roar of mirth.

Reason

"You like I get husband for you?" she said kindly after she had stopped laughing. I was clearly letting the side down for the market mummy may be a go-getting career woman—but she does not fail in her family duties.

For many of them the sole reason for sitting for ten hours a day by their goods is to send a son (or, let us not mince matters in respect of these robust ladies, a young lover) to university. Often enough to England.

For some mammies become quite rich with fortunes running into five figures. Esther, for example was selling from two barrels of plug tobacco, a wholesale expenditure of £600—and it would take her two months to sell it all.

"Now get marry girl," was her last advice to me. "And still you can work. That way you will be better than a man."

Market mummy wisdom—no wonder the men of Ghana are perturbed.

Protest

When Nkrumah's Austerity Budget was announced in July it was the market mammies who marched to his residence in protest. An unprecedented move, for the "showboy" has always been their darling.

By the time his statue was blown up they seemed to have forgiven him, since they held a rather grisly ritual sacrifice of a sheep below the shattered feet of the statue to "purify" it.

Instinct

There is not a smattering of organisation or sense to it. But no woman could fail to find her way round it by instinct. It is such an improbable outpouring of goods, food and female force and know-how that men seem to have ceased to exist and parthenogenesis is only round the corner.

Ten thousand mammies ring bells, cry their wares, cajole, chat, tend their children, cook—and sometimes when the sun shines too bright, sleep in Makola market.

There are at least five more markets in Accra—but Makola is the liveliest.

Transport to the market parking ground is by the fabulous "Mummy wagon," the light open-sided trucks with always some title, motto name or abstract inexplicable exclamation painted over the windscreen (My favourite, which keeps changing, at the moment

Relief

The farinaceous foods, cassava, maize, rice and yam provide a scentless relief. But soon it is peppers as bright red as their flavours and a sharp smell.

The mammies shield their heads with huge plaited straw hats—some mammies need hats four feet across to cover their ample forms—and sit in patience.

Some days they have no sale at all—and yet the fivepence stall money has to be paid. A pennyworth of corn beer served in a half calabash is the mammies' elevenpence.

Sugar sweats in the sun. A woman in a wrapper printed with skulls sways past with, on her head, six zinc buckets in a stack with "Made in Poland" stencilled on them.

Cola nuts that are both the benzodrine and chewing gum of Africa are sold wrapped in

Smarter

Not, I must truthfully report, a strong selling line, she tells me. Topical cloths are getting to be dowdy in Accra.

It is smarter, I learnt, to wear only abstract patterns, an influence not attributable to, although coincidental with, modern art.

"Still I make back on de others what I loses on dem," says Okule, looking ruefully at the Royal visit cloths (a costly £1 18s.).

She also sells brown sticks of chalk which the women rub over themselves as powder—and pennyworths of loose powder in a screw of paper.

Although to ask how many children a woman has is an delicate question in West Africa, since I have asked her how many she has, Okule now

Huge ore deposits discovered

HUGE iron ore deposits have been discovered in the Pilbara district, 750 miles north of Perth in Western Australia which could amount to 1,800 million tons, and about five times Australia's known reserves.

The real significance of the discoveries would have to await the results of detailed testing, and plans for this by some of the investigating companies are already being made.

Some of the prospecting has been carried out in rugged and difficult country over a belt of more than 100 miles in length, but in some places within 50 miles of shipping points.

The Minister for National Development announcing the find said "A steel industry in the West will lay the economic foundation for the state's industrial development."

Fivepenny blunder

The new fivepenny Australian Christmas stamp, shown here, has been described as the fivepenny "blunder." Art experts agree that the stamp which was described as a "warm brown colour" has been badly designed and is "sleazy in colour."

AUSTRALIAN NEWSLETTER BY EMH

The lettering has been described as "ghastly" and the print on the left hand side of the stamp can only be read through a strong magnifying glass.

But in spite of all the criticism there was a tremendous rush on first day covers and more than 12,000 of them were stamped. The stamp will be on sale for about nine weeks altogether.

Dental benefits

A new dental and optical benefits fund will be launched in Sydney in the next few weeks, which will be set up by the Monches-ter Unity Society. Contributions will be at the rate of 2/- a week for adults, children will be 1/- per week, with a maximum family rate of 6/- weekly.

Dental benefits will range from 12/6 for filling, 10/- for an extraction and £7 for a full set of dentures.

Optical benefits will be £2 for new spectacles or lenses, £3 for contact lenses, and 7/6 for replacement of single lens.

The scheme will function in the same way as the existing medical services fund.

Discrimination

Fluoridizing of the Eastern side of the Harbour Bridge by the Department of Main Roads began three weeks ago, and it is automatically illuminated with 140 floodlights between dusk and 10 pm from Monday to Thursday and until midnight on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The lighting system cost £20,000 and it was considered that the eastern side was the greatest tourist attraction. But four M.L.A.'s from the North Shore think that people living on the western end of the Harbour and on the North Shore are as deserving of a view of the floodlight bridge as those in the eastern suburbs.

They feel there shouldn't be any discrimination especially as North Shore residents contribute so much to the toll.

But it's a question of economy, and the best side from a tourist attraction, and at present there are no plans to illuminate the western side of the bridge. See picture.

The improved trend in the demand for labour has become more evident since the end of July and figures issued by the Department of Labour and National Service show that during October, the number of people registered for work fell by 12,574. This fall is the third in successive months.

The New South Wales survey shows more seasonal work in vegetable canning, fish preserving and in production of bottles, beverages and Christmas foodstuffs, and more work in iron and steel mills, motor vehicle assembly and cotton spinning and weaving.

There seems to be a continuing recovery in the economy and general level of business activity.

FLOP OF FLOPS' by

The man who rewrote the Bible

THE script writer of the most malign film of the decade remains unperturbed. He has not even read the reviews.

So Philip Yordan does not know that the Film Critic Leonard Mosley has said he hopes "King of Kings" Yordan's rewrite of the life of Jesus Christ—will be a flop of flops.

But Philip Yordan has a sick line of defence. "How many critics have read their Bible, I wonder? When you write for the wide screen you don't exactly write as if the picture is to be shown in a telephone booth. You have got to fill it up with something," he said in London the other day.

"What people will go to on Sunday with a feeling of exaltation they won't necessarily go to on ordinary days to pay and see. It's a different experience sitting in a cinema to sitting in church. One is a darkened house, and one is lighted up."

The suave, fortyish Mr Yordan, who is in London for the premiere of another film, says he doesn't mind what the critics say.

THE JEWS

"I am not a literary man myself, so I am no longer irritated. The most important thing is not to offend. But I ask you, how familiar are people with the Scriptures? How imbued are they with prejudice?"

Yordan stopped for a moment to sip his Bloody Mary and then said: "My purpose was to capture some visual symbolism. People come to the film expecting to walk out hating the Jews. Well, they have been disappointed. I am not interested in making a hate picture."

And why, all the fuss because I have made Judas out to be a fine character. It's historically accepted that Judas was the treasurer of Christ and his disciples.

"They wine and dined with many important people. They had to live and eat. You can't beg all the time. Donations were made, I expect. And Judas kept the cash."

But what about the straying from the text... "Text? There is no such thing as being really faithful to the text because what text are you talking about?"

THE SERMON

I asked rather gently about the Sermon on the Mount—it had been rather extended so one was told.

"Sure," answered Yordan. "The Sermon is the high point of the film. Look, if you want to get impact you must surround the scene with lots of details to sustain the interest. I have to have a certain amount of film-making time. For that I chose sayings attributed to Jesus. Not just sayings in the Scriptures, he added vaguely.

"People who want the real purity of that Sermon can read it all in about 12 seconds in the Scriptures. And there you have it. It's different in a film."

Now someone is getting the seasons right

By BARBARA GRIGGS

JUNE - IN - JANUARY sounds a heartening thought - rather like Christmas - in - July. Unfortunately both slogans might be used to sum up the calendar of the fashion industry in this country.

As I write, invitations to the last of the summer 1962 showings are sitting on my desk. While you're Christmas shopping, the orders will be rattling through to the factories.

The moment the January sales are over, the first of the crisp cutouts will be pouring into the shops. Just at the time when you start to long for a pretty spring wool suit, anything wool will have achieved maximum scarcity value.

And by the time you're looking for something really cool to wear, in the searing heatwaves of August, a tweed coat will be the easiest thing to find.

Impulse buying

Among the many unhappy consequences of this state of affairs is that women's strong urge towards impulse buying - prompted, perhaps, by a last-minute invitation of spring in the air, or a love affair - is frustrated nine times out of ten by the lack of anything to impulse-buy.

The big fashion houses have all got an explanation to offer. However, they say, have to a limited amount of money to spend, and they like to spend it well in advance of the season.

They have to work in advance because of the huge volume of business. And for the same reason, they can't possibly make more than two collections a year, which is why autumn and spring clothes are virtually nonexistent in this country.

Exceptions to this, unfortunately, are the shops whose buyers are sufficiently on the ball to buy smaller, more flexible manufacturers into producing swift translations of the Paris line for instant wear.

Realistic time

Now at last one big-time wholesaler, Samba, run by Samuel Sherman, has had the courage to throw the established timetable overboard and work to a more realistic one.

Soon, they will be showing latest collections of spring transition clothes, including a group of shapely, grey-flannel dresses for New Year sales (see picture on the right).

Next collection will follow in February, for April onwards, sales of high summer clothes. The next collection - May, for early autumn transition clothes. And the last collection - in late summer, for warm winter clothes.

BASIC GREY FLANNEL—for wear from March to October the way the French girls do—tailored to a loose-torso dress, with cinnamon saddle stitching round the collarless neckline and outlining the single inverted pleat in front that shows a low cinnamon belt. Price about 6 gns.

NEW WAYS WITH COFFEE

Ham loaf with a coffee glaze

WHAT in the world becomes of left-overs? We see a tender morsel of meat or a half-cup of luscious gravy being tucked away in the ice box and then what happens? Well, all too often the left-over is left and forgotten simply because it's hard to know what to do with it.

Take ham, for instance. Now here's a favourite roast that can take on a variety of flavour-guisers, meal after meal. The last time you serve it, the ham can be just as good as the first.

One of the happiest ways to use it is in a coffee-glazed ham loaf, a good variation on the meat loaf theme.

Once you've tried this recipe, you'll find that left-over ham won't have a way of getting lost in the ice box.

COFFEE-GLAZED HAM LOAF

2 lbs. lean pork, ground 2 eggs
1 lb. smoked ham, ground 1/4 cup ketchup
1 cup soft bread crumbs 1/2 teaspoon salt
Few drops Tabasco

Combine all ingredients and shape into loaf. Bake, uncovered, in moderate oven, 325°, 2 hours. During last hour, baste four times with coffee glaze. Serves six to eight.

Coffee glaze

1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup brewed coffee
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon mixed pickling spices, tied in cheesecloth
1 teaspoon vinegar

Combine all ingredients and bring to boil. Simmer until mixture forms a thick syrup. Remove spice bag.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

Which Came First?

—Punch Doesn't Know Answer To Question—

By MAX TRELL

"UNCLE Punch," said Hand, the Shadow Girl with the Turned-About Name, "which came first, the Chicken or the egg?"

It was a curious thing. Uncle Punch was sitting at the table in the sunny corner of the room. Just as Hand asked this question about the Chicken and the egg, Uncle Punch's wife Judy came up to the table with two freshly-boiled eggs and two slices of whole wheat toast.

Uncle Punch was just about to have his breakfast. "Thank you, my dear," Uncle Punch said to Aunt Judy. Mr Punch was about to crack open his egg. Aunt Judy stopped him.

"Hand asked you a question, dear," Aunt Judy said.

Too hungry

"Which came first," repeated Hand, "the Chicken or the egg?"

"Answer her, dear," said Aunt Judy. "I'll be glad to answer her after I have my eggs," replied Uncle Punch.

"I'm too hungry to answer questions now," said Uncle Punch. Aunt Judy had picked up the dish of eggs. She held them just out of Uncle Punch's reach.

Mr Punch sighed. Then he turned to Hand and bowed. "What was that question again, darling?" he asked. Hand smiled.

"Which," she said for the third time, "came first, the Chicken or the egg?"

"That's a very interesting question," said Uncle Punch. "Whatever made you think of it?"

A puzzled look came over Hand's face.

Can't decide

"I can't decide which is the right answer," she said. "How can you have a Chicken unless it comes out of an egg? And how can you have an egg unless you have a Chicken to lay the egg?"

"Yes," said Mr Punch, "it's an interesting question. It isn't the kind of thing you can answer one-two-three."

"No," said Hand, "It isn't." "I wouldn't like to give you the wrong answer," said Uncle Punch.

"Of course not, Uncle Punch," said Hand.

"In that case," said Uncle Punch, "you'd better let me have a little time to think about this."

Here Aunt Judy interrupted. "How much time?" she asked.

"Until I finish my eggs," said Uncle Punch.

"Answer her now," said Aunt Judy. "You get no eggs until you answer her!"

Uncle Punch looked sad but there was no help for him. He shut his eyes.

Hand and Aunt Judy looked at each other. They were sure that Uncle Punch was thinking about the question.

Then Uncle Punch opened his eyes.

Wants toast

"Can't I even have the toast?" he asked Judy.

Judy said sternly, "No! Answer the question!"

"Which came first," said Hand for the fourth time, "the Chicken or the egg?"

Uncle Punch shut his eyes again. Aunt Judy held the plate of eggs. Hand waited.

"Hurry up, dear," said Judy to Mr Punch. "I'm getting tired of holding these eggs."

"And I'm getting tired of waiting," said Hand.

Mr Punch went right on sitting with his eyes shut.

"In fact," Hand thought, "he has fallen asleep." She even fancied she heard him saying words in his sleep. She went up close and listened.

What she heard

Here's what she heard him say:

"Eggs? Chickens? Chickens? Eggs? I can't reckon."

"Which came first? And which came second?"

"Oh well, I guess we'd better give him his eggs," Aunt Judy said to Hand.

Hand nodded.

"I suppose so," she said. And Uncle Punch opened his eyes and smiled and reached for his two boiled eggs.

Judy gave Punch eggs and toast for his breakfast.

JACOBY on BRIDGE

WHAT would your second bid be with the North hand? One North player chose to bid two no-trump. South went to three diamonds. North raised to four and South continued to the diamond game.

West opened the jack of hearts and East's king was allowed to hold the trick. Later, South was able to discard one of dummy's clubs on the queen of hearts. He still had to lose one club trick, but was able to ruff a third club with the queen of trumps and wrap up his game contract.

The other North play did not like the idea of a two no-trump bid. He felt that he was too strong for a mere return to two diamonds and not strong enough for a jump to three diamonds so he made the unusual bid of three clubs.

This gave South a chance to make a mistake and he acted nobly. South jumped right to five clubs. Again the jack of hearts was opened and East

I don't think much of North's three club bid, but no harm would have been done if South had merely gone to four clubs. In that case North would have gone to four diamonds and been out of the club trap.

Incidentally, three no-trump makes, also. Perhaps that should have been the final contract, but never five clubs.

Rupert is only too glad to leave his perilous perch and stand on solid rock, and within a few minutes the smiling Merboy appears just below him. "Ah, so you're here. That's good," says the little creature. "You'll be safe here until I want you again. There's nobody on the island so you can't escape. Now I must go and warn the Deputy that you're coming." "What's a Deputy?" says Rupert. "And why must I?" "But before he can finish his question the Merboy dives and is gone." "Oh dear, I'd better look round," thinks Rupert.

UNWELCOME VISITOR

Lynnfield, Nov. 22. Cus D'Amato, manager of heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, showed up at challenger, Tom McNeely's training site today and was thrown out by McNeely's two trainers.

D'Amato arrived in mid-afternoon by taxi from Boston. He said he hoped to see Pete Fuller, the challenger's millionaire manager, while here.

Ejected

But he got no farther than a few feet inside the converted garage in which McNeely was training.

Trainers Jackie Martin and Johnny Dunn forcibly ejected D'Amato.

The incident smacked of publicity but D'Amato left for Boston a few minutes later after accusing Fuller of being responsible for his ejection.

"What kind of business are they trying to do to me?" asked

DURANT'S 124 HELPS RAJASTHAN TO SCORE 245 FOR 7

Jaipur, Nov. 22.

Salim Durani, the 26-year-old Indian Test all-rounder, today scored the first century hit against MCC on the present tour.

His 124 helped Rajasthan to score 245 for seven on the first day of their three-day match here.

Durani who scored 71 in the first Test against England was always willing to make attacking strokes—a refreshing attribute in generally defensive cricket met with in India. He had 13 boundaries in his innings which lasted four hours and five minutes.

His best partners were Hanuman Singh and Kishan Rao, a millionaire business magnate both of whom scored 42.

Best bowler

Durani who put on 96 in 95 minutes with Hanuman Singh for the fifth wicket was caught low at mid-off by Tony Lock off David White. The Hampshire fast bowler dismissed Raj Singh with his next delivery to end with figures of three for 53.

David Smith, however, was much the best MCC bowler on the matting pitch from which spinners could extract no help. The Gloucestershire pace man again demonstrated his value as a stock bowler and captured four wickets for 36 runs in 21 overs.

White ran into no-balling trouble and was called 11 times for cutting the line.—Reuters.

Dukla, of Prague, the Czechoslovak Army team, beat Servette, of Switzerland, 2-0 here today in the second leg of their European Cup tie.

They were beaten 4-3 in the first leg in Geneva, but won the tie with a goal aggregate of 5-4.

The Czechs, who included four of the probable national team to meet Scotland in a World Cup preliminary match play-off in Brussels next week, will now meet Tottenham Hotspur, the English League champions and Cup-holders, in the quarter-finals.—Reuters.

Vienna, Nov. 22.

Florentina of Florence defeated Rapid of Vienna 6-2 tonight to advance into the quarter-finals of the Cup-winners' European Soccer Cup tournament. The half-time score was 2-0.—AP.

Fairs Cup

Milan, Nov. 22.

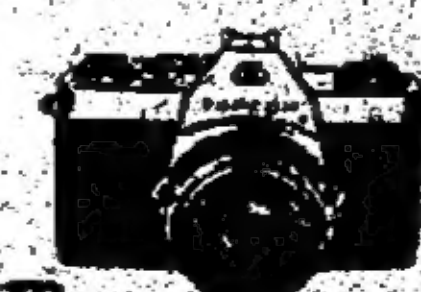

Italy's Internazionale soccer team of Milan beat Heart of Midlothian of Scotland 4-0 today to win a berth in the quarter-finals of the Fairs Cities Cup tournament. Internazionale led 2-0 at half-time.

The game was a second-round return match. Internazionale won the first match 1-0 at Edinburgh on Nov. 6.

The Milan team will now play the winner of the match between Valencia and Lausanne in the quarter-finals.—AP.

Court sanctions Elorde fight

Manila, Nov. 22.

A court decision today cleared the way for Italy's Sergio Caprari to fight Flash Elorde, the Philippine world-junior lightweight champion, here on Dec. 16.

Judge Agustin P. Montesa denied a request to have the fight stopped, made by boxer Solomon Boysaw of Cleveland, Ohio. Boysaw contended the match, billed as a championship fight, should not be permitted to go on because the U.S. National Boxing Association has not recognized it as such.

The judge ruled that NBA approval or disapproval was immaterial.

The Philippine and Italian Boxing Commissions have recognized the bout as for Elorde's title.

The NBA ranks Boysaw as No. 1 challenger and Caprari as No. 2.—AP.

LIFELESS, INEPT SOCCER BY ENGLAND AGAINST N. IRELAND

London, Nov. 22.

England, expecting to win by a handful of goals, found considerable difficulty in drawing — with Northern Ireland, the "Cinderella" team of the four British nations in their last international of the year at Wembley Stadium today.

England fielded at least the nucleus of the side which was expected to represent the nation in Chile in the World Cup finals next June. On today's form they might just as well stay at home.

The Irishmen had won only one of the last 12 internationals and bookmakers were laying odds of seven to one on English victory.

Low attendance

But England gave a lifeless and inept display. Territorially, the Irish had more of the game which lacked both fire and lustre and was played before only 30,000 spectators, the lowest ever attendance for an international at Wembley.

England got the only goal of the first half, through Manchester United left-winger Bobby Charlton in the 21st minute from a breakaway and against the run of the play.

Jimmy McIlroy, the Burnley inside-left, got the equaliser five minutes from the finish.

Danny Blanchflower, who was making history for Northern Ireland by getting his 50th cap, celebrated half the century with a wonderful display as right-half. He was easily the best player on the field.

Scotland will now win the United Kingdom International Championship unless England beat them at Hampden Park, Glasgow, next April. Victory would enable England to share the championship with Scotland.—Reuters.

SERVICES GOLF MEETING

The Autumn Hongkong and Kowloon Garrison Golf Meeting was held at Fanling on Monday, Nov. 20.

The medal and scratch competitions were played over a new course in the morning but due to heavy rain and the greens being unplayable during the vital period in the afternoon, the Stapleford competition had to be cancelled. It is hoped to play this on a Wednesday afternoon in the near future.

Major R. Edmundson won the Scratch Competition from Col. L. R. Beauchamp OBE by a very close margin, both returning gross scores of 83 but Major Edmundson having the better score over the last nine holes.

The Handicap competition was won by Capt. C. R. C. Bedford with Cpl. Gibbs as runner-up.

Wolf Lyberg here

Mr. Wolf Lyberg, who has arranged for a number of European teams to play in Hong Kong, including the forthcoming Norrbyggen series, arrived here last night by an SAS plane on a business visit. He will leave for Sweden on Saturday.

PHILIPS PHILISHAVE 120

THE WORLD'S TOP-SELLING ELECTRIC SHAVER

Sole agents: Gilman & Co. Ltd., P.O. Box 56, Hongkong

Modern men all over the world use the Philips Philishave dryshaver. The reasons are simple. The Philips Philishave gives a good and a close shave. Shaving in this modern manner is comfortable, and it keeps your skin in excellent condition. It's the Rotary Action that makes shaving with the Philips Philishave both good and pleasant.

For non-electrified areas, Philips designed the Philips battery shaver. The principle is the same. The results, too, are equally good.

November 1936

Tokyo. Visitors to Japan henceforth will be prohibited by the police from dancing with the pretty geisha girls who entertain them at the larger restaurants and tea-houses. Dancing must be confined to the regularly licensed dance-halls according to the latest series of police edicts aimed at purifying Tokyo's social life.

Geishas who have been called upon from time to time to entertain foreigners have found that the idea of dancing with a girl in the high Japanese headdress and colourful kimono appeals to most visitors.

A number of the girls, therefore, made it a practise to carry small portable phonographs with them instead of samisen and to dance with the guests after dinner.

That activity, the police now hold, comes under the classification of taxi-dancing and not geisha entertainment.

That order is the most recent of a number affecting the dance halls and the conduct of foreigners who, chafing under the lack of night life in the world's third largest city, seek substitutes for cabarets and dancing spots.

The aim of the campaign is to make Tokyo perfectly moral even at the risk of making it dull, by the time the Olympic Games are held in 1940. The threat of deportation has been held out against foreigners who transgress the moral code.

Strict censorship of movies, with deletion of kissing scenes, is still in vogue. Close supervision of publications also is being continued. The American magazine Film Fun has been banned because it was considered objectionable to Japanese morality. — United Press.

London. THE Sunday Dispatch estimates that 1,000,000 Britons are confined to their beds with "four-day flu," comparing the outbreak with the 1918 epidemic, with the exemption that it is far less virulent.

Incomplete medical reports showed 26,249 deaths for the month.

BUSINESSMAN FINED FOR GIVING FALSE INFORMATION TO GOVT

A businessman was fined $2,000 by Mr K. A. S. Phillips at Central Magistracy this morning for giving false information to the Department of Commerce and Industry in an application for a certificate of origin.

The 38-year-old defendant, Dong Ble-chou, of 17 Prat avenue, Kowloon, admitted the offence.

Revenue Inspector C. G. Kerswill told the court Dong operated an export firm and also acted as a broker.

On behalf of the Kun Ming Commercial Company, Dong made an application for the D.O. and I for a certificate of origin in which he declared that 25 pairs of ivory chop sticks and 50 pieces of ivory carved fans were manufactured by the Chan Yee Wuh Plastic and Ivory Carving Factory.

MAXIMUM

In a K.O. added that the Kun Ming Company was under the impression that the goods were manufactured from the registered factory when in fact they were not and therefore, Dong was not entitled to have the certificate of origin.

Just Kerswill informed the court that the maximum penalty for the offence was a fine of $5,000 and one year's imprisonment.

'SAILORLY BRAWL' ENDS IN COURT

Three seamen from the aircraft carrier, HMS Bulwark, who were found brawling outside a Wanchai bar last night, appeared before Mr T. I. Yang at Causeway Bay Court this morning.

They were Lance Powell, 19, John V. Arnold, 22, and James H. Foster, 20.

The three pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct but Mr Yang discharged them without conviction.

Detective Inspector A. A. Gosden, prosecuting, told the Magistrate that the three were engaged in a "sailorly brawl" after a few drinks in a Wanchai bar.

In discharging them, Mr Yang told the defendants not to make fools of themselves again.

Open air concert

An open air concert will be given in the Kowloon Tong area of Kowloon for the first time on Sunday afternoon, if the weather is favourable.

The concert will be given by the Band of the First Royal Northumberland Fusiliers at the Children's Playground in Cornwall-street from 3 pm to 5 pm.

Seating will be provided for the public.

Miners back

Brisbane, Nov. 22. For the first time in eight weeks all available labour was working at Mount Isa mine today.

Owners of the mines closed down the mines on September 25 after miners' stepped work over a bonus issue.

A return to work order was issued by the Queensland Government under a state of emergency it proclaimed on November 20.—China Mail Special.

Factories

Havana, Nov. 22. China will build 24 factories in Cuba in the next four years, it was announced today.

Fifty Chinese Government officials met Cuba's Industries Minister, Ernesto Guevara, to consider the plan. The factories will be paid for with part of the 60 million dollar loan granted to Cuba by China during Mr Guevara's visit to Peking last year.

Nine of the factories will produce chemicals.—AP.

HE BECAME GREEDY ON SEEING HER MONEY

A 15-year-old youth was this morning sentenced to be detained in the remand home for the maximum period of six months on a charge of robbery with aggravation.

He admitted bashing a maidservant on the head with a house brick and snatching a bag containing goods and money from her at the Peak Tram station in Bowen-road on October 13.

"I was greedy because I saw the money," he told Judge B. J. Jennings in the Victoria District Court.

The boy's accomplice, 17-year-old messenger boy, Wong Yau-keung, was remanded in custody for a week for a report from the Police Commissioner on his suitability for training.

Both pleaded guilty to robbing Lo Shun-chun of a purse, three keys, two jackets, a pair of underpants, a piece of cloth and $10.60 in cash.

SUSPICIOUS

Chief Inspector W. Apps, giving the facts, said the maidservant was waiting at the Peak tram stop late on the night of October 13. She was checking the money in her purse when she saw the two youths standing nearby.

Wong spoke to her and she became suspicious when she saw the boy nod to him. The boy was carrying a small parcel wrapped in paper. He asked her the time, and as she was replying, he hit her on the head and grabbed the bag.

There was a house-brick wrapped in the paper, Chief Inspector Apps said.

As the boy was running from the tram station, a passenger on a bus alighted and heard a woman calling for help. The man, Mr Lee Tai-ho, asked the boy what was the matter and he replied there was a woman in trouble and tried to hurry on.

Mr Lee was suspicious and tried to grab the boy. He broke away, but Mr Lee chased and caught him. He was still carrying the bag and brick. The woman identified him as her assailant, Chief Inspector Apps said.

MAXIMUM

He told the Judge that the boy had been put on a year's probation last September on a charge of larceny, but the other youth had no record.

In reply to the boy's plea for leniency, Judge Jennings said: "The Court was lenient three months ago. You were given a chance and look what you have done with it."

He ordered that he be detained for the maximum period, six months, in the remand home.

To the youth, Judge Jennings said: "If I am lenient with you it will encourage others to commit similar offences and other travellers by night could be terrified. The public must be protected."

He ordered him remanded in custody for a week for a special report on his suitability for training.

Judge Jennings thanked Mr Lee for his actions. "The public and the Courts are very grateful," he said.

Chief Inspector Apps said Mr Lee would be rewarded for his assistance.

Tribal fight

Ellisabethville, Nov. 22. At least 29 Baluba tribesmen died during a fight which broke out last Monday night between rival factions in the refugee camp established by the United Nations outside Ellisabethville at the beginning of September it was learned today.

A U.N. spokesman said the death toll might be as high as 50 when all the bodies had been recovered. Patrols of Swedish soldiers have already made several rounds of the camp to look for bodies of victims which had been hidden by the warring tribesmen.

Last night 50 to 60 Baluba discouraged by the ferocious rivalry, left the camp to return to their homes.

Monday's riot started by a group of youths was the most serious outbreak of violence in the camp.—AFP.

Govt laxity

I notice that the China Light directors plan to give themselves an annual increase in fees, but the Government still prevents the company from paying shareholders a realistic dividend and has still done nothing to ensure that the ordinary consumer is charged a fair and reasonable rate for his electricity.

Grand Prix and TV

How is it that an event as colourful and spectacular as the Eighth Macao Grand Prix was not covered by Rediffusion's TV network?

Earlier this month we had to be satisfied with snippets of the Princess on our screens, and now we are faced with a similar situation with the GP—an annual event that is tailor-made for any television studio in the world.

Come on, RTV, let's use some of that lovely money from your thousands of subscribers for some better local, live programming.

Another view

"American Businessman" criticising your fine publication for printing Mr Gregory Wong's article regarding Malaysia's adverse reaction to the American Government's decision to reduce her rubber stock-pile would seem to be completely out of order in view of the United Press International's cable from Washington published by you yesterday which states that the action in the opinion of the Malaysian Government Commerce Minister was "like dropping a (50) megaton bomb."

Clergyman asks on Thanksgiving Day If Mr Krushev were to pray...

The Rev Elbert Gates, asked this morning at the American Thanksgiving Day Service, what would happen if Mr Krushev went down on his knees to pray.

Speaking at the Kowloon Union Church, Dr Gates said one of the greatest needs in human life was for man to give thanks. He cited Hitler and Mussolini as examples of what could happen when man lost his sense of perspective and dependence on God.

Then he contrasted the thankfulness and humility before God, of the Queen of England and President Kennedy of the United States among other heads of state who set an entirely different example to their peoples.

CORNUCOPIA

"It is a good thing to give thanks to the Lord" was the text chosen by Dr Gates, and by coincidence, it was the opening phrase in the Thanksgiving Day proclamation issued by the President of the United States, which was read at the service by Mr John Lacey, Acting Consul General in Hongkong.

The church was packed with parents and children and a cornucopia filled with fruits and autumn flowers was placed before the lectern.

Welcoming the congregation on behalf of the Kowloon Union Church, the Rev. T. W. Settle took part in the early part of the service during which the duet "I heard the voice of Jesus say" was sung by the Rev Hugh Smith and the Rev Loren Noren. The scripture reading by the Rev. M. F. Aty was followed by prayers led by the Rev R. Anderson.

American travel agents hear talk on tourism

A group of 26 American travel agents last night heard a talk on tourism in Hongkong given by Mr Lorenzo Lo, executive director of the Hongkong Tourist Association.

The agents were the guests of Scandinavian Airlines System and the Miramar Hotel at a cocktail party at which they met many local travel agents.

The group consists of 21 of the leading travel agencies on the American west coast. There are also five agents from New York, Philadelphia, Canada and Mexico.

The agents were invited guests of SAS on the inaugural DC-8 jet flight to the Far East. They are part of the 100 agents in America who annually receive a Viking Award from the airline for the amount of business they conduct with SAS. After five years they are awarded a Silver Viking plaque if this quota is maintained.

Compensation for tenants in Kowloon

A total of $166,860 compensation was this morning recommended by the Tenancy Tribunal for tenants occupying Nos 88, 90, 92 and 94 Hak Po-street, Mongkok, Kowloon.

It is proposed to replace four four-storey tenement houses built about 35 years ago with four 12-storey Chinese tenement buildings costing $730,000.

Shops

The exemption application was made by Mr Leslie Wright, instructed by Mr Peter Mo, on behalf of Mrs Lu Shan-ki, Mrs Yu Wai-chen and Mr Ma Tin-kwan.

Mr Wright said the ground floor of the new building would be used for shops and all upper floors would be used for domestic accommodation.

There were 101 opponents to the application.

The Tribunal comprised Mr C. Q. Lam, President, Mr P. F. F. Watkins, and Mr Kwok Lam-po.

INFECTIOUS DISEASES INCREASE

A usual seasonal rise in the incidence of infectious diseases associated with the warmer weather and rainy season was noted in the New Territories during the third quarter of this year.

Diseases connected with overcrowding and upper respiratory infections continued to decline in the rural areas, states the Director of Medical and Health Services, Dr D. J. M. Mackenzie.

"Exceptions noted were bacillary dysentery which fell below the expected average for the quarter and diphtheria which showed a slightly higher incidence than usually recorded at this period of the year," Dr Mackenzie adds.

There was a decline in the incidence of measles as only three cases were reported as against 30 in the preceding quarter. Six poliomyelitis cases were notified as compared with ten in the same period last year.

An increase in the notifications of malaria was observed in the New Territories, mainly the Sai Kung, south Lantau and north-west Lantau districts.

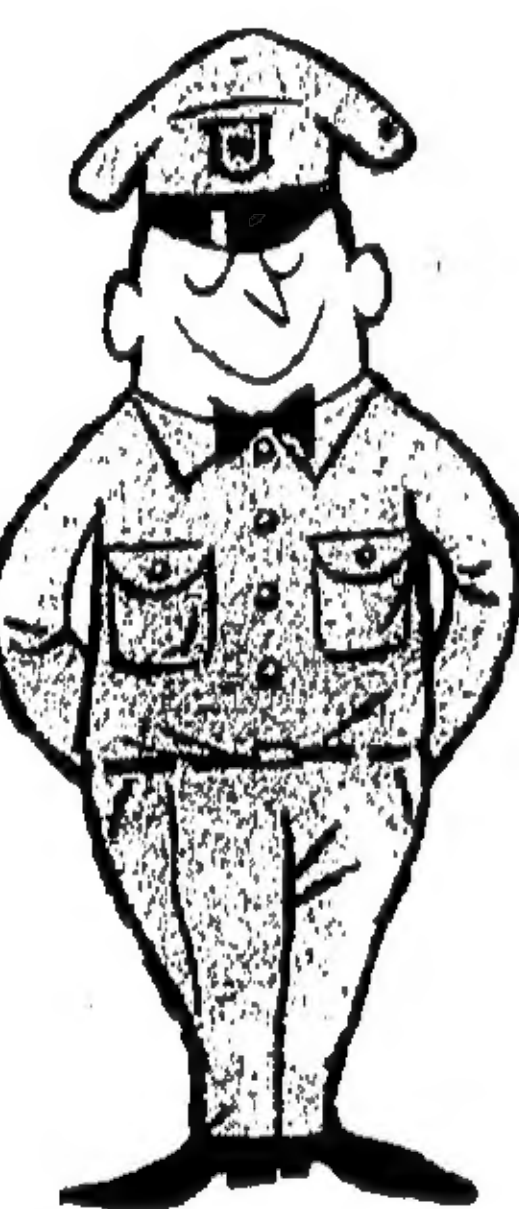

A total of 327 cases was notified as compared with 103 in the previous quarter and 267 in the corresponding period in 1960.

Oil, watercolour paintings put on exhibition

About 130 watercolour and oil paintings and drawings were put on display jointly by the Alumni Club of the Hongkong Fine Art Evening School, at St John's Cathedral Hall this afternoon.

These are the works of 34 graduates of the school and depict Hongkong street scenes, portraits and still life.

There are also a few Chinese paintings of traditional scenes. The exhibition will remain open tomorrow and Saturday.
